STONEWALL JACKSON AT SCHOOL

An old schoolmate of Thomas J. (Stone wall) Jackson told me the following incident in the life of Jackson, which was not published in his biography, and may be nteresting to some of your readers:

interesting to some of your readers:

When young Jackson was about twelve or thirteen years old he was attending a school taught by John Lywther, in Lewis county, W. Va. The school house was built of logs, with a large fire place at one end, in which a small log heap was kept burning to keep the house warm. Noticing that Thomes looked sullen, and was not studying, (in those times scholars were compelled to study) Mr. Lowther asked him what was the matter. Thomas made no answer. "Thomas, what is the matter? Why don't you study?" No answer. "Thomas, you are cold, and I will warm you." He then sent a boy for a piece of plank, and when it was brought laid it upon the hearth before the fire. Thomas was compelled to lie down upon the plank, and when the part nearest the fire was well warmed he was turned, after the fashion of our grandmothers turning a the fashion of our grandmothers turning a johnny-cake. After he had been turned a cake. After he had been turned a stingly girritation, inflammation, all kides he was allowed to return to his he had no more trouble to study.

The friends of each are entirely wrong, as the unexpectedly large majority for the Republican candidate was owing wholly to the marvellous growth of the Industries of the State of New York during the past few years.

In 1876 the total vote cast for President in the State of New York was 1,011,268, divided thu: Democrat c, 512,048; Republican,

In 1880 the total Presidental vote amounted to 1.102,428, divided thus: Democratic, 534,511; Republican, 554,544; Greenback, 12,373. The increase in the popular vote during the four years, 1876, 1880, was 91,160, or a gain of 8:26 per cent, whereas the increase of the population of the State for the ten years from 1870-1880 was only 15:9 per cent. This increase of 91,100, as show by the vote of 1880 over that cast fn 1876, ought to clearly satisfy any one that the full vote of the State was cast in 1880 and that there was no sulking on the part of Mr. Tilden's friends. This conclusion makes the speaking tele-phone, in its elementary form, free to the whole world. It opens wide the door for the future development of the telephone; and it should assure to all those who, by their genius and industry, in our day and generation, have improved or may improve the telephone, an ample pecuniary reward. The recompense due to the family of Phil-ip Reis should take the form here after not of a tax, but a free gift from the world's gratitude.

This book comes, then, as a charter of freedom of speech in a larger sphere than ever before known.

In the light or historic facts which this book establishes, the decision of the courts of the United States that Professor Bell is the discoverer of a new and useful art (the electric transmission of speech), to which he has exclusive title, must be reversed as speedily as possible, that our courts may retain the respect of the people of the United States. which ought to have been done; a hight, dry cough and flushed face is sometimes an attendant, often mistaken for consumption; the pasient complains of weariness and debility; nervous, easily starfled; feet cold or burning, sometimes a prickly sensation of the skin exists; pipiris are low and despondent, and, although satisfied that exercise would be beneficial, yet one can hardly summon up fortiude to try it—in fact, distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred when but few of them existed, yet examination after death has shown the Liver to have been extensively deranged.

It should be used by all persons, old and young, whenever any of the above symptoms appear.

Persons Traveling or Living in Unhealthy Localities, by taking a lose occasionally to keep the Liver in beathy action, will avoid all Malaria, Billious attacks, Dizzness, Nasaca, Drawisess, Depension of Spirits, etc. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage. If You have eaten anything hard of digestion, or fed heavy after meals, or sleep-less at night, take a dose and you will be relieved.
